December 26, 2006

Zion I, The Grouch, and Pep Love, three of the Bay Area's dopest hip hop artists are joining forces with Shades of Gray Productions & Storytyme to throw the sickest ski video premier party imaginable for S.o.G.'s 3rd release, Worland Warriors III: Enter the Worland. Tickets are $15.50. Contact The Boulder Theater @ 303.786.7030, www.bouldertheater.com

Touring behind their new album, Heroes in the City of Dope, Zion I and The Grouch reunite with frequent collaborator, Pep Love of Hieroglyphics to headline the premier of Shades of Gray Productions' new school ski video, Worland Warriors III: Enter the Worland. Complete with a fully choreographed, post apocalyptic, Ninja vs. Skier battle to the DEATH and hot, battle-ready volleyball chicks, as well as some of the steeziest skiing ever invented, the video will be shown sandwiched between, the deliciousity of certifiably insane rock-trio Storytyme, and the holy dopeness of the hip hop headliners.

The show is at The Boulder Theater on January 16, 2007, which is the 1st Tuesday of classes for CU students. This date was chosen partially out of consideration for the academic futures of Boulder's student population, thinking that it would be best to hold this event before too much school work was assigned, because it is simply not realistic to think that anyone would stay home and study through a party/show like this.

Please get your tickets now. This event will most definitely sell out. Contact The Boulder Theater at 303.786.7030. www.bouldertheater.com. Tickets: $15.50. Doors: 7:00 PM. Show: 7:30 PM. Enjoy.
